NEW: 2006-2007 SCHOOL YEAR From the Museums at Fort Lee

A FREE Program offered by the Museums at Fort Lee for all public and private schools

Collocated at Fort Lee, both museums offer complementary programs which support and enhance the Virginia Standards of Learning for History/Social Studies, English and Visual Arts. Your visit includes a one hour program in each museum. Your students become history investigators as they use primary sources from our collections and archives to learn about people and events in the past. The program Whatizit? will help students develop critical thinking skills by analyzing artifacts to determine what they might have been used for, who might have used them and how they would have been used. It includes an exercise that develops skills for narrative, expository and informational writings. What ' s in a Kodak™ Moment? challenges students to compare and contrast, make connections between past and present, determine cause and effect, make inferences and generalizations and draw conclusions based on visual primary evidence from the museum ' s archives. This combined-program is tailored specifically for each grade level. For secondary school grades the pre-visit includes a presentation on research methodology followed by a hands-on experience in the museum using primary documents and artifacts. Students will participate in an activity that requires them to report findings as a small group. This program includes a pre-visit to your classroom by a museum teacher, grade-level appropriate program of activities and a gallery tour of both museums. Additionally, each teacher will receive post-visit lesson plan ideas and student activity booklets.

Now accepting registration for participation in our FREE program
Available September 2006 through May 2007

MAKING THE PRE-VISIT A SUCCESS

Before we visit your classroom:

Contact the Museum with final attendance numbers of students 2 days prior to the program.

When we visit your classroom:

Please have a whiteboard or blackboard and table or desk available for our use during the program.

Students may sit at their desks.

This program is designed for not more than 30 students at one time. This ensures a quality, hands-on experience for all of the students.

Please be sure a school employee remains with the group at all times during the visit.

U.S. Army Quartermaster Museum

Starting in 1775 under General G. Washington and continuing today, the Quartermaster Corps is older than the nation itself.

From the Revolutionary War to Operation Iraqi Freedom, the QM Corps keeps soldiers supplied with food, water, clothing, shelter, and fuel.

The QM Museum contains a visual history reflecting not only the role of the Quartermaster Corps but also a view of the US history spanning 231 years!

Exhibits include artifacts, primary sources, and visual information about all of the major US military engagements.
